1. Ground of Suspicion (Narrative)

The transaction in question has raised several red flags that warrant further investigation. The risk score of 70, as captured by the system, indicates a higher than normal risk associated with this transaction. Furthermore, the transaction amount of 945000 INR is just below the threshold for large outbound transfers, which could suggest an attempt to avoid detection. The fact that the transaction is an international wire transfer to an account at Emirates NBD, a foreign institution, adds to the suspicious nature of this activity. Additionally, the presence of a high-risk score of 100, as indicated separately, reinforces the need for a thorough review of this transaction. The combination of these factors suggests potential money laundering activity, and it is essential to investigate this transaction further to determine its legitimacy.

2. Suspicion Indicators & Regulatory Basis

Indicator	Regulation	Description
High Risk Score	Aegis Bank AML Policy, Section 4.1	The transaction has a high risk score of 70 and a separate risk score of 100, indicating a higher than normal risk associated with this transaction.
